

Council oks extra month for weed abatement

By Don Green

The Upland City Council Monday night granted property owners an extra month to weed their land before city - contracted firms are called to carry out the second abatement program this year.

Four residents told the council letters they recently received stipulating abatement by Tuesday allowed them too little time to weed their own property or hire a contractor to do the job.

John Gubler said the short notice would drive up prices for property owners who call private firms to clear out the weeds.

Administrative specialist Mike Matlock explained the second weed abatement of the year - usually completed during spring - was needed due to August rains and the hot days that followed producing an unwanted bumper crop.

H.M. Barnhart contended the worst weed conditions in Upland exist on a vacant lot in the Upland Town Center and on city - owned land on Benson Avenue north of Huntington Drive.

He suggested city crews should clean up these areas before Upland "harasses private property owners" and asked the council if weed abatement "is just a matter of making work for city employees."

Mayor pro tem John McCarthy assured Barnhart that both city - owned and private land would be weeded, adding that private firms are contracted.

Matlock said he did not know of any weed - infested lots owned by the city near the Benson Avenue and Huntington Drive location.

Another resident, Lynn Harrison also asked the council for more time to weed his land, saying that left to the city, the contracting cost could jump from $300 to $1,300 "pretty fast."

On a 4-0 vote, the council rescheduled the start of the weed abatement to Nov. 21. The fifth council member, Mayor George Gibson, was absent.

Matlock told the council all owners of property weeded during spring were notified of Monday's public hearing for the second round of abatement.

However, he added that acreage not needing abatement will be withdrawn from the city's list when property owners call city hall.

The owners of more than 1,000 pieces of land received letters regarding weed abatement.

In other action Monday night, the council gave the Euclid Avenue Orange Association three more weeks to consider recommendations detailed in a memo by City Attorney Donald Maroney for reducing the impact of the citrus packing house on nearby residents.

John Nolan, attorney for the packing house that has prompted complaints from Euclid Place residents, requested the delay, saying packing house representatives did not receive a copy of Maroney's memo until 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Residents of Euclid Place addressed the council Oct. 3 specifying complaints about noise, odor and air pollution, primarily from trucks loaded and unloaded at the facility.

While the council granted the packing house extra time to review the recommendations, Councilman Hal Bailin warned Nolan and Jim Neu - president of Pure Gold, Inc., in Redlands, the sales firm for the packing house - they would be "negotiating for the very existence of the business."

Referring to complaints presented by the residents, Bailin, an attorney, said, "In a legal concept, there may well be a case made that continuance of the business at all is a nuisance."

Councilwoman Ina Petokas agreed, telling Nolan at one point, "You're bargaining - the time's over for bargaining."

Premo Valle, spokesman for the Euclid Place residents, said one recommended restriction - limiting hours of operation to 7 a.m.-9 p.m. - was inadequate and suggested 5 p.m. be the latest packing house operations be allowed to continue.

Maroney told the council the packing house has cleaned under its cull shed west of the main building and oiled a squeaking conveyor belt, which he said will continue to make noise until its rollers are replaced within three weeks.

Astara sets reception for former students

Astara will hold a back-to-school reception 2-5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 29 for all former students, faculty and staff of Beulah College and Upland College.

Highlight of the event will be mementos and souvenirs from the past of the facility, located at the corner of San Antonio Avenue and Arrow Highway.

During remodeling of the campus buildings into facilities for the Christian education center, many items were discovered which reveal the functions and activities of the old college.

Astara plans to donate the memorabilia "to the many people who cherish fond memories of their college days from 1920 to 1965."

Mementos include old yearbooks, choir robes and caps, college catalogs, recordings, photographs and negatives.

The events they commemorate include singing the Beulah College song: "Down in a spacious valley at the foot of mountains tall..."

Other items mark basketball games pitting the Upland College Spartans against Biola, Cal Tech and La Verne.

Past students are among those who will remember building a college snowman when snow fell in Upland in 1949, voted for Wolfgang as the name for the new skeleton in zoology class, or sang with gospel quartets the college produced.

Beulah College itself was founded in 1920 by the Brethren in Christ Church, California Council as a coeducational training center for young people to receive a liberal arts education in a Christian environment.

In 1935 the college moved from its original site at Third Avenue and F Street to the Arrow Highway site and expanded its curriculum from junior college to bachelor of arts. The name was officially changed to Upland College in 1940. The college maintained close ties with the Brethren in Christ Church but was governed by an independent board of trustees.

Upland College curriculum included general education in the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences with special training in teaching, and Bible and religion.

The campus had been vacant for 10 years when Astara opened its Christian education center in 1976.

The old gymnasium, with its floor laid by students in 1948, has been converted into an auditorium, and the college chapel is again used for Sunday services every week.

Classrooms, dormitories, dining facilities, and former library are now used to present a variety of lectures, seminars, retreats and special classes.

School district seeking adult volunteers

By Lynne Locke

Upland School District is seeking adult volunteers to assist in classrooms, school libraries and resource centers, and to teach students about hobbies, interests, and careers.

Volunteers will provide "an extra pair of hands to help, another set of eyes to see and ears to listen, another allotment of patience, more assistance for students - in short, an extension of the teacher to help bring about what his or her head and heart wish to accomplish in the classroom," according to coordinators Marilyn Beckman and Tamara Jordan.

Goals for the districtwide Join Our Young (JOY) program include providing personalized attention, individualized learning, increased opportunities, expanded areas of interest and accomplishment, and improved self images for students.

Volunteers have worked in classrooms for a number of years but the new program will "unite all the Upland schools and use volunteers in every school to benefit children," according to Mrs. Beckman and Mrs. Jordan.

They noted that each school will continue to have a volunteer coordinator to plan the individual school's program and to report to the district coordinators, who include Linda Bowman and Judy Wallace as well as Mrs. Beckman and Mrs. Jordan.

Although volunteers programs have relied on parents - particularly mothers - in the past, JOY is expanding to involve other local residents.

Retired people, college students, residents who do not have children, and business people are all encouraged to participate.

The coordinators noted that other local residents have become particularly important because more mothers are working and are not available for volunteer work.

Volunteers will assist in classrooms, providing tutorial assistance to students, help in the library, classroom or office, or chaperon field trips.

Other volunteers will work in the instructional materials center preparing teaching aids, displays and games. Some volunteers will focus on assisting students with development of reading and language skills.

Perhaps the most exciting part of the program will be volunteers with special interests and experiences, who can share their knowledge with students.

Local residents who have special hobbies or skills are encouraged to talk with students. Volunteers are also needed to tell students about careers and the business world.

Residents who are interested in volunteering, should contact the JOY Volunteer program through the Upland School District, 904 W. Ninth St., Upland.

The News

Press releases and news for the Upland community should be sent to Lynne Locke, The Upland News, 886 W. Foothill Blvd., Suite E, Upland 91786 two weeks before event.

Parents are urged not to discuss individual students' problems at the brief meetings but are encouraged to make appointments through the counselor's secretary.

Class visits will continue until 9:05 p.m. Free baby sitting will be available in the cafeteria.

Dessert will be served by the PTSA in the cafeteria during and after class visits.

Juvenile justice branch to take time, work

By PETER WONG

Despite a tentative commitment for a Juvenile Court branch in the West End, much work remains to be done before juvenile justice proceedings can begin locally.

In assuring the county board of supervisors this week that a Juvenile Court branch will be established in Ontario "at the earliest practicable time," Henry M. Busch, Superior Court presiding judge, conceded one key point.

"The closer the court is to the community, the more effectively the community can develop resources to solve its problems. In the area of juvenile delinquency prevention, this is an extremely important factor," Busch said in a report to county supervisors.

The West End's county supervisors, Chairman Robert O. Townsend of Chino and Joseph Kamansky of Upland, local police chiefs and other officials of West End cities have said that because of the area's growing population and the increasing number of juvenile cases, establishment of a local Juvenile Court is justified.

As for juvenile cases in which youths do not have to be detained at juvenile hall in San Bernardino, a local Juvenile Court branch and its staff would be of some help in obtaining the assistance the youths need right in their own communities.

That is one goal of a law (AB 3121) which has been in effect since Jan. 1.

While not denying the benefits of a Juvenile Court branch in the West End, Busch warned the supervisors that establishment of such a court would constitute a major commitment on the county's part — and not only in terms of money.

Once a Juvenile Court branch is opened, Busch said:

— More referrals will be made to the juvenile justice system, more petitions will be prepared and more hearings will be held, simply because the court will be nearby — and cases that would not have been pursued because of the court's location in San Bernardino won't be dropped as easily.

— On the whole, juvenile cases are becoming more complex and will require more time from the Juvenile Court staff and such county departments as the district attorney's office, the public defender's office, the probation department and the welfare department, among others.

— As the West End's population increases rapidly, juvenile crimes can be expected to go up — and even without growth, the rate of juvenile crime continues to increase.

Furthermore, Busch has told the supervisors, a Juvenile Court branch should be established in Ontario, at the present court complex at Mountain Avenue and Sixth Street.

Until permanent quarters are completed around 1980, Busch has indicated, the remodeling of the vacant health department building at 1020 W. Sixth St. could provide the courtroom and offices required for a Juvenile Court branch in the West End.

But Busch said the county's judges do not want to hold juvenile justice proceedings in a vacant courtroom in the county branch office building in Chino, an alternative Townsend has suggested to allow the Juvenile Court branch to get started while remodeling in Ontario is completed.

And Busch appeared to be lukewarm at best toward another proposal Townsend offered — to seek legislation that would allow Municipal Court judges to try some types of juvenile cases.

In his report, Busch appeared to chide Townsend and Kamansky for pressing for the immediate establishment of a Juvenile Court branch in the West End.

"The question ... is one of when can local services be provided and how much will they cost," the report says.

"When all factors are considered, a piecemeal or temporary arrangement may please the community, but the cost may be disproportionate

Court consolidation: would it work?

In an effort to speed up the start of juvenile justice proceedings in the West End, Supervisors' Chairman Robert O. Townsend has suggested the possibility of using Municipal Court judges to try some juvenile cases.

However, that would require state legislation, and Henry M. Busch, Superior Court presiding judge, didn't express great enthusiasm for the proposal.

The possibility of using Municipal Court judges for cases that would normally be considered in Superior Court — including juvenile cases, which are considered in Juvenile Court, headed by a Superior Court judge — stems from legislation signed Sept. 24 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Enrollment decreases

Enrollment is down slightly for the opening of the school year in the Upland Elementary School District, and Superintendent George Renworth says classrooms are in "pretty good shape" despite some continued crowding in north Upland schools.

As of Sept. 30, 5,913 pupils were enrolled at the district's nine elementary and two junior high schools, compared to a closing enrollment of 5,972 in June.

Renworth noted the district adds pupils in its upper grades when families move into the city, and he has previously estimated enrollment may increase to 6,300 by June 1978.

to their value, and their quality may be under par.

"The court urges all interested parties to review the entire problem thoroughly, with patience, and with a view towards long-range planning."

Kamansky has replied that Juvenile Court proceedings in the West End are so important they should begin as soon as possible, even if the initial quarters don't resemble "a castle," as he put it.

In the Juvenile Court building in San Bernardino, the chambers are far smaller than a normal courtroom, but the public waiting area is larger. There are other differences.

A consultant that is drafting the master plan for development of the West Valley court complex in Ontario has been asked to study whether the vacant courtroom in Chino can be used for Juvenile Court branch operations.

35th District grants total $11 million

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., has announced that grants totaling over $11 million have been awarded to the 35th Congressional District during September.

"I'm pleased that my efforts on the Public Works bill resulted in badly needed jobs and community projects for the constituents of this district," Lloyd said.

The individual projects approved last month are as follows: The City of Ontario received $2,258,000 for a new City Hall. Montclair was awarded $1,045,000 for a new community building. The communities of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda received funds for park improvements totaling $222,119. West Covina was awarded $1,359,755 for a street improvement project and community center at Woodside Village. The communities of Wrightwood, Upland and Chino were awarded funding for new fire stations and Pomona received $850,400 for a fire station and training facility.

Upland also received funds to reconstruct Second Avenue, to rehabilitate an Upland elementary school, to build a maintenance and storage yard with offices and to construct a community center.

Dental Center opens

The San Antonio Community Hospital Dental Center has opened for the 1977-78 school year in order to provide dental care for dentally indigent children.

To qualify for the free dental service these children must have parents who are not on welfare, are not covered by dental insurance and whose income bracket makes the cost of private dental care prohibitive.

In addition, an oral health education program is available to all children in the area if teachers request it through public, private and parochial schools in Mt. Baldy, Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Central, Etiwanda, Guasti, Mountain View, Upland and Ontario-Montclair school districts. A total of 7,057 children were aided through this program last school year.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Mastin, members of the Assistance League of Upland organize the center's activities which include: scheduling clinics, dentists and patients; conducting eligibility screening; serving as receptionists; and instructing children and their parents in dental care and nutrition.

The operatory is equipped with three dental chairs and units which allow for either sit-down or stand-up dentistry. An old dental chair is used for X-rays.

The hospital furnishes the facilities and utilities for the center.

Members and guests will tour the airport for a behind-the-scenes inspection of the Federal Aviation Authority facilities. The Terminal Radar Approach Control Office will be a highlight of the tour.

Supervisors OK free admission for seniors at regional parks

Several changes in fees for regional parks, including free admission for senior citizens two days a week, have been approved by the county board of supervisors. The changes will take effect Jan. 1.

Two of the county's regional parks are located in the West End — Cucamonga - Guasti Regional Park and Prado Regional Park, south of Chino.

Persons 62 and older who purchase a $5 annual pass will be admitted free two days a week to all but one of the county's regional parks.

The exception is Lake Gregory in the San Bernardino Mountains, which became a regional park July 1.

The days which have been suggested for free admission by senior citizens are Tuesday and Friday. But the director of regional parks, Gary D. Patton, can set aside different days.

On those days, senior citizens would have to show their passes and enter the parks before noon to obtain free admission.

October 20, 1977

Details on how and where senior citizens can purchase the special admission passes will be announced later.

The senior citizens' preference program will cause the regional parks department to lose some income, although some will be made up by the sale of annual passes, Patton told the supervisors.

Overall, however, other fee increases will more than make up the losses from granting free admission to senior citizens two days a week, he added.

Among the increases are the following:

— A fee of $1 will be charged for each vehicle which enters a regional park, regardless of the day. Presently, a fee of 50 cents is charged during a weekday, with $1 being charged Saturday and Sunday.

For Cucamonga - Guasti Regional Park, the $1 fee applies only to the driver of a vehicle.

BASKETBALL ? — Tossing a basketball isn't really a game in General Telephone's pole-climbing classes. It's a way of learning balance, dexterity and confidence while working on telephone poles that can reach more than 22 feet in the air. A number of factors have nearly doubled General's job training requirements this year over 1976, with an increasing number of women moving into men's jobs.

At GTE

Women move to 'male' jobs

An upswing in the economy over the past year - and - a half has helped nearly double General Telephone of California's employee job training requirements, with women heavily involved as they move into traditionally male jobs.

"As the economy improved in the third quarter of 1976, customer demand increased. General also began accelerated hiring for the first time in several years and job transfers began speeding up," said S. A. Jacobucci, training director. This, coupled with changes resulting from competition, a more sophisticated work force and advanced technology, has greatly increased company training needs.

General trained 7,316 people in the first half of 1977, compared with 5,543 during the same period of 1976. "During this year we expect to train at least double the number of employees we trained last year," Jacobucci said.

An increasing number of those employees are women moving into traditionally men's jobs and, to a lesser extent, men moving into the traditional female jobs, such as operator and customer representative. Today, 83.7% of General's frame maintainers are women, filling jobs which formerly were a male-only domain.

Female percentages in other former male bastions are cable splicers, 3.6 per cent, equipment maintainers, 13.6 per cent, warehouse attendants, 44.3 per cent, senior equipment production assemblers, 75.8 per cent and equipment installers 13 per cent.

In 1976, the company had 251 employees attending its telephone pole climbing classes. This year, 323 already have gone through the class and the total is expected to reach 775 by the end of the year. About 24 per cent of those students are female employees.

According to Jacobucci, approximately two out of three women students pass the pole climbing class, with failures mainly attributed to physical inability to complete the strenuous course. The male failure rate - about 5% - is traced primarily to mental attitudes. "Some people are just bothered by heights," Jacobucci said. Pole climbers have to be able to scramble up poles at least 22 feet high.

General's equal employment opportunity record, both in regard to women and minorities, has received compliments from Federal and State enforcement agencies. In 1971, for instance, only 5.4% of its top five grade level jobs were filled by female employees. Today, with a 44.7% female work force, 15% of the top five level jobs are held by females and one member of the board of directors is a woman. General also has more than doubled its percentage of minority management employees - from 4.4% in 1971 to 10.4% today, and is aiming at 16.4% by 1979.

Jacobucci said that training efforts are aimed at two goals: developing the company's work force to provide the best possible service to customers, and assisting employees in their own personal career and job development.

"The telephone industry is unique in that much of what we do isn't taught anywhere else," he said. General's training program today includes about 360 courses ranging from an eight-hour cardiopulmonary resuscitation class to a 185-day course in toll switching center control room operator and equipment maintenance training.

The company is making increasing use of video tape units and is putting as much material as possible on a self-teach basis using video and audio tapes and accompanying workbooks as an economical means of offering material on a timely basis.

Many courses, however, are still instructor-taught in classroom situations, utilizing hands-on demonstration of operating equipment whenever possible.

Auditions scheduled for Christmas show

Auditions for "Amahl and the Night Visitors," the December presentation at the Gallery Theatre, Ontario, will be held Saturday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the theater, 126 E. C St.

Major roles call for a mother (soprano), Amahl (boy soprano from 8 to 12 years of age), three kings (tenor, baritone and bass) and the page (baritone). Also needed is a singing chorus of eight, and one female and two male dancers.

For the second act, various choirs of the area will be featured in a festival of choirs. Any church or community singers interested in performing in this Christmas show may contact Mark Shipley at 982-5357 or attend the rehearsal.

Currently played at the Gallery Theatre is "The Hasty Heart," a love story and comedy. Reservations may be made by calling 982-5357.

Back to School Night scheduled

Don Antonio Lugo High School invites students and parents to its Back To School Night, Oct. 24, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Parents are to visit the classrooms, and talk to teachers, counselors and administrators. It is hoped that as many parents as possible will take this opportunity to see what their sons and daughters will be involved in throughout the school year, and to better acquaint themselves with Don Lugo High School.

SECURITY SYSTEM — Tracey Williams, 16, a junior at Montclair High School, walks through the turnstile of the school library's new book theft detection system. If she had been carrying a book which had not been desensitized at the checkout desk, the turnstile would lock shut and the system would sound a high pitched alarm.

System foils high school book thefts

Whether matching wits against what they see as a challenge or trying to steal, Montclair High School students are finding the school library's new book anti-theft system hard to beat.

If a student walks out carrying a book which hasn't been desensitized at the checkout desk, the exit turnstile suddenly locks shut and librarians are alerted by high pitched beeping.

The system has been publicized on campus to discourage thefts, but it stopped two students who nevertheless concealed library books in their notebooks in its first week of operation.

"We told them it was not a good idea," said librarian Alma Polk. "It was embarrassing for them since other students were present. They probably will not do it again."

Other students also tried to get library books past the system, but they appeared to be motivated by a desire to play "a new game" rather than steal, Mrs. Polk said.

Two who played this game were appointed volunteer monitors to watch during the crowded lunch hour for students trying to evade the system.

As students become accustomed to the new system, "I know it will become an old game," Mrs. Polk said.

The system will cost $11,900 to acquire on a lease-purchase basis over the next two years, a sum only slightly exceeding the library's $11,600 in book losses over the last two years.

If, as is hoped, the system does reduce book thefts by a big margin, similar systems are likely to be installed at other Chaffey Joint Union High School District school libraries.

In an indication of the effectiveness of the system, Mrs. Polk displayed a thick sheaf of letters from other libraries telling how such systems had greatly reduced book thefts.

Book thefts are a "very serious" problem according to Mrs. Polk. She said 6,070 books have been stolen since the library opened in 1959 and 593 were stolen last year.

Money that could be spent for new books went instead for replacements, cutting into library efforts to maintain a complete stock of up-to-date books, she said.

Additionally, she said, students sometimes searched the bookshelves in vain for books they needed for research.

Overeaters Anonymous meet Monday mornings

Men and women are invited to attend meetings of Overeaters Anonymous which are held each Monday morning from 10 to 11:30 a.m. in the Ontario City Library.

This world-wide organization of compulsive eaters has 52 groups meeting in the San Gabriel Valley and Inland Empire areas.

The groups consist of from 12 to 75 persons and like Alcoholics Anonymous, which they are patterned after, feelings are shared by members, discussions held, speakers heard and spirits bolstered.

AA literature is used by OA, with the word food being substituted for alcohol.

For further information on various meeting places and times, call "Elsie" at 622-6430 or write to Overeaters Anonymous, 894 N. Garey Ave., Room 107, Pomona.

RESTLESS IN SLEEP TIRED TOMORROW?

By DR. W. P. HELZER, D.C.

There seems to be a growing group of people who complain they are "always tired." What is the answer to this troubling problem? Before I answer, let me say that if you have the impression that the tired feeling is always the result of a deficiency of some important substance in the blood, that impression may well be wrong.

I don't care what that commercial says. There are other possible causes and it is two of them that I would ask you to give some thought.

Consider "lazy blood vessels."

Should I drop a cork in a narrow stream where there is a fast current, the cork will float rapidly. Should that stream bed suddenly widen to a pond, the cork will float lazily along.

Now if that cork were a blood corpuscle in the blood stream, carrying oxygen to some needy cell, or if it were a particle of nutrition for that cell, you can imagine what would happen. The cell would tire before it received its nutrition.

Without getting so technical that I must give a complete description of the circulatory system and the function of the heart, let me simply ask you to observe that when the blood vessels are generally too relaxed, the circulation of nutrition bearing blood to the cells is slowed too much. Some call it sluggish circulation. I used the term "lazy blood vessels."

I would like to call your attention to a statement by Loyola University's Psychologist, Dr. William Zoethout: "In order that the tissues may be adequately supplied with nourishment and at the least expenditure of energy, a close correlation must exist between the nervous mechanism governing the heart and that controlling the size of the blood vessels."

Certainly then an upset in that nerve mechanism of tissue nutrition is an important factor in that "always tired" feeling.

I mentioned two reasons for that "always tired" feeling. The second is Unrelaxed sleep.

To feel fully refreshed and equal to the next day's tasks, one must be fully relaxed in sleep.

I could go on at some length but suffice it to say, the person who's always tired would probably get pretty bored over medical fact and supposition.

He's tired, he "runs out of gas" easily, he plops in a sofa when he gets home and can hardly force himself to pay attention to his family and job.

So I ask that he...or she...remember just one thing. Being "too pooped to pop" is not normal. Chances are that it is a condition that won't clear itself up, nor will energy pills and additives clear up the cause of the problem. I've had many patients drag themselves into my care. Frankly, it peps me up to see them swing back into stride.

Film series

Dr. George Giacomakis, president-elect of Institute of Holy Land Studies, Jerusalem, Israel, will introduce the widely acclaimed film series, "How Should We Then Live?" with the showing of the first episode, entitled "The Romans Years" 6 p.m. Sunday at the Valley Community Drive-In Church, Lone Hill Avenue and Covina Boulevard, San Dimas.

"How Should We Then Live?" a 10-episode color film series which examines the rise and decline of western thought and culture, was written by and features Dr. Francis Schaeffer. "Dr. Schaeffer makes his home in the Swiss Alps where he has developed a reputation for his ability to communicate ideas and principles to men and women from all walks of life," said a church spokesperson. "Time magazine called him a missionary to the intellectuals, but his questions and thoughtful answers have meaning for everyone. He has warned that our commonly accepted human freedoms, often taken for granted in the West, are in great danger of disappearing. But, unlike most doomsayers, he offers positive alternatives for the future."

Dr. Giacomakis is professor of history at California State University, Fullerton. He is the author of many books and articles on Israel and the Arab countries including 65 short articles in the five volume "Zondervan Pictorial Encyclopedia" on the ancient Near East and the biblical world, 1975.

In succeeding episodes of the film series, Dr. Schaeffer will look at the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, the Reformation, the Revolutionary Age, the Scientific Age, the Age of Non-Reason, the Age of Fragmentation, the Age of Personal Peace and Affluence, and conclude with final choices. These episodes will be introduced by other prominent Biblical experts and educators.

The public is invited. Admission is free. A voluntary offering will be received.

Offerings asked for Temperance Day

Saturday is World Temperance Day in all Seventh-day Adventist Churches. A special offering to support world temperance programs will be received.

Miller Brockett from the General Conference Temperance Department calls it "the life blood of our entire outreach program for the year."

"Alcoholism, the Nation's number one drug problem, ranks along with heart disease and cancer as a major U.S. disaster, yet the liquor industry seems not to recognize the devastation caused by their products in homes, business and on the highway," said a program spokesperson.

Every 20 minutes, on an average, someone is killed by a drinking driver and 60 persons are injured the spokesperson noted. Studies show drinking a factor in 57 per cent of traffic fatalities.

For the first half of the year, in California alone, statistics show 395 traffic fatalities. This means 226 of them were alcohol related.

As Christians, Brockett believes, "It is our privilege to take our stand on temperance. We are just as accountable for evils we might have checked in others by reproof, warning, and exercise of parental or pastoral authority, as if we were guilty of the acts ourselves."

While expressing approval of the church's activities in helping to acquaint individuals with sound principles of health through the 5-Day Stop Smoking Plan, 4-DK programs for problem drinkers, weight reduction, literature and multi-media presentation in high schools and service clubs, he also reminded people of their need to support these programs.

Those interested in the programs can call (714) 593-1889 for more information.

Vera von Hueck Dunning recalls Russian revolution

By Peggy Olsen

A woman whose conversation is sparked with wit and good humor, Vera von Hueck Dunning's memoirs promise to captivate many readers.

Entitled "From the Coronet to the Shovel," the book will reveal the destiny of a woman who early associated with Russian nobility, experienced the terror of the 1917 Russian revolution, and later found "life in fullness" amid the citrus groves of Southern California.

When completed, the book may well be considered a significant addition to the San Dimas resident's vast literary collection, part of which was recently exhibited at The Honnold Library of the Claremont Colleges.

Mrs. Dunning's Russian collection includes 600 volumes focusing on Peter The Great, pre-World War I, and revolutionary and post-revolutionary periods. It contains letters written by the Tsar to his wife and mother, a genealogy of the Romanoff family, 250 photogravures of the Romanoff tricontennial, and illuminations of ancient manuscripts from the first to the 17th centuries. "The Coronation," a copy of which Mrs. Dunning has donated to the San Dimas Library, contains numerous illustrations of the reign of the Romanoff family.

Recorded in many volumes are events which significantly affected Mrs. Dunning, a Russian native whose father was a general and president of a Russian military academy during the reign of Nicholas II.

The tricontennial photogravures depict a ball attended by her parents. Held in 1903 to celebrate 300 years of Romanoff rule, it was attended by 250 guests, all dressed in 1613 era costumes. "I remember mother and father saying that there was not one duplication of costume."

Mrs. Dunning also recalls her distaste for Rasputin, a notorious Russian monk whose influence over the royal couple was partially responsible for the Bolshevik revolution.

Mrs. Dunning recalls that the heir to the throne, "a very sickly boy," was near death. "Doctors were saying we cannot do anything, and I remember his cries were getting weaker and weaker." The Tsarina sent a telegram to Rasputin who was then in Siberia. He responded: "not to worry, the boy will not die." Soon the boy stopped crying, his color changed, and he lived. "After that," Mrs. Dunning said, "Rasputin could do no wrong."

But, Mrs. Dunning declares,

Rasputin was an evil man who had "hypnotism and clairvoyance." Many times, people in court circles managed to send him away from St. Petersburg and eventually he was killed by Prince Yosoupo, Grand Duke Dimitry and a journalist named Pourishkevich.

The prince invited Rasputin to his palace. "Rasputin thought, 'Now I'm getting the plum,'" she noted, adding that instead he was served cyanide, "enough to kill a horse" in his cakes, but strangely did not die. The conspirators then shot him and threw his body into a frozen river. "When they found his body, there was water in his lungs. He still breathed," Mrs. Dunning said.

Mrs. Dunning has vivid recollections of being "right in imperial headquarters" at the time of the abdication of Nicholas and Alexandra. Following that fateful event, Russia was ruled by a provisional government, "oh, such genteel people who were going to do everything for everybody," she said with a note of sarcasm.

There was mob rule until Trotsky and Lenin were sent from Germany "in sealed railroad cars. Mrs. Dunning notes "The revolution would not have survived if not for Trotsky. Lenin was only

Students guide hotel opening

The gala opening day for the New Otani Hotel and Garden in Los Angeles came and went. Over 2,000 guests had paraded through the lobby, dining rooms, gardens and exhibition suites. It was a champagne opening with all the trimmings — a western-style formal string orchestra and five-foot high sculptured ice swans decorating the buffet table.

A party like that doesn't happen overnight. All summer long before the opening students and professors from Cal Poly, Pomona worked in the confusion and melee of an incompleting hotel to assure that when that day arrived services would be up to perfection. And most of them stayed on to assist in running a smooth operation.

Last spring the New Otani granted a $9,000 study award to the hotel and restaurant management department at Cal Poly for an on-site study of the opening of a major hotel. Students in the department enrolled in this internship study program.

Four Cal Poly students majoring in hotel and restaurant management still at the Otani were willing to tell what it is that makes them want to be hotel managers and what it all involves.

There is Joe Azevedo, age 20, of San Francisco who works at the front desk. He likes the hotel business and he ought to know. His father was a hotel manager and Joe spent a good part of his earlier years living in hotels. Poised and personable, Joe is particularly enthusiastic about the Motorola Scan 400 computer that registers and preregisters guests automatically, and best of all, is programmed to do a complete night audit. No more bed counts with pencil and pad.

Upstairs by the elegant master suite Jennifer McDowell, age 22, of Pomona, had graciously greeted the sight-seeing guests and patiently dealt with the crowds and confusion on that opening day, even though she had worked almost all the night before checking inventories. Throughout the summer she worked purchasing for and organizing one of the Otani's restaurants, the Canary Gardens, which serves American and international cuisine. Jennifer intended to be a teacher when she first entered college, but working as a cashier, hostess, cook and assistant manager at Griswolds in Claremont and at the Otani convinced her that working in a hotel would be a more exciting career choice.

Jennifer likes the idea of serving people and hopes she may stay on at the Otani because of their philosophy toward service, which is to provide extras in courtesy and services for customers. Some of the extras are built in — like the phone in the baths and the high, conveniently-placed door knobs.

Linda T. Yu, age 22, of San Gabriel, portrays the same kind of enthusiasm as Jennifer does over working in a hotel. "A hotel is a fascinating place — just like a little city," she says. Linda grew up traveling around Southeast Asia, for her father's job as mechanical engineer with Summit Company required many moves. She loves to be on the go, meeting new people. She enjoys handling people and their traveling problems and may eventually go into tourism. Presently, Linda is working as an accounting clerk, but her field of interest is hotel sales.

Kazuyuki Kawakita, age 27, of Downey, works as a bartender at the Otani. He graduated from Waseda University in Tokyo with an accounting degree and was unwilling to face, to him, the dullness of a lifetime position in a paternalistic corporation in Japan. So he has lived the last four years in the United States working and going to school. He sees excellent future opportunities in the field of hotel and restaurant management, even if he must return to Japan. Kazuyuki prefers the "learn-by-doing" polytechnic philosophy of education to the Japanese system. Outgoing and cheerful, Kazuyuki prefers American bars, for the customers are not slightly guilt-ridden about drinking, as they are in Japan, he says.

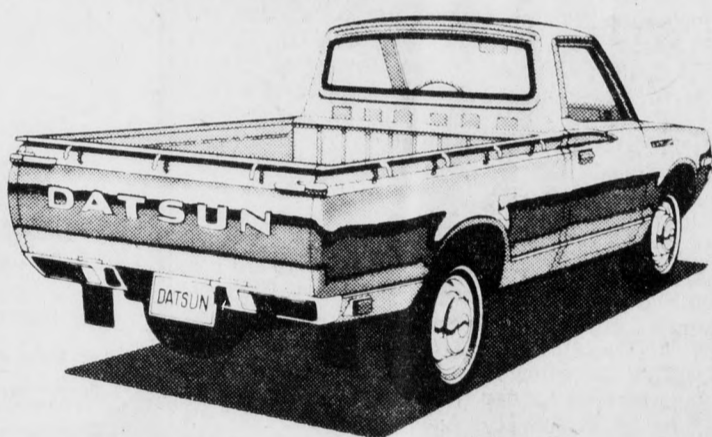

Overseeing the students are professors Ralph M. Scarrow and Jeffrey M. Wachtel of the Cal Poly hotel and restaurant management department. They too are working in Little Tokyo, launching and directing operations for the Otani. The professors are particularly involved in hiring personnel — over 350 are needed — and in training them, and in purchasing and stocking all the equipment such as dishes, flatware, bedding, etc.

"The Otani is unique. It's an international hotel. The executive chef speaks seven languages and employees speak a total of 18 languages. Also unique are the Japanese bath and gardens. And the prices are competitive," says Scarrow.

Wanderings with Walt Brasch

Free vacations
(Just plead guilty)

My friend, Marshbaum, called me the other night, breathless and excited about going on an extended vacation to Jamaica, Bermuda, and many of the other Caribbean islands.

"That's wonderful news!" I said while shaking my bedside clock to make sure that it hadn't stopped permanently at 2 a.m.

"Yes, sirree! I'm going to have a ball out there in all that sun."

"When you leaving?"

"I'm not sure yet. Later today. Maybe tomorrow or the end of the week. It's still up in the air. Whenever the travel agency is closed."

"Open, you mean," I said, correcting him.

"No, closed. You see, I can't break into the Sedergate Travel Agency until it's closed. I was going to try for early this morning, but—"

"Now, wait a minute," I said, trying to comprehend what he was saying. "You mean that you're going to steal the tickets?"

"Sure. Now, as I was saying, I'll be leaving—"

"Look, Marshbaum, I hate to break it to you, but stealing tickets to go to the Caribbean is illegal."

"Sure, I know all that. Do you think I should travel light and buy all my clothes there, or—"

"Marshbaum," I said quite concerned. "Don't you understand? Didn't you hear what I just said? Breaking into the Sedergate Travel Agency and stealing tickets to go to the Caribbean is illegal."

"Do you think it'd be better if I stole the tickets to go to Europe?"

"It's not that at all. Stealing isn't right. They could put you away for a long time."

"Oh, don't worry about that," said Marshbaum, reassuringly. "The U.S. attorney said it was O.K. Now, about my diving gear. Do you think we—"

"Marshbaum," I said sharply.

"Have you been working too hard? Has the California sun fried your brain? What do you mean the U.S. attorney said it was O.K.?"

"It's right here," said Marshbaum. "Right here in the newspaper. The U.S. attorney has given me permission to break into the Sedergate Travel Agency and take the tickets. All I have to do is plead guilty and give him my full cooperation. Then I'll get off."

"Marshbaum, was it the fried mushrooms we had last night? They have a tendency to do funny things to the mind."

"No, let me read this to you," said my almost-convict-striped friend.

"It's here in print. In black and white, so you know it must be right. It seems that the federal government brought charges against 10 doctors for Medicare fraud."

"So, what else is new?"

"Now, wait a minute. Let me finish. It seems that the government had overwhelming evidence against them. I mean, after all, you just can't go around billing the government for things you don't do. Anyhow, four of them pleaded innocent and in a trial, I don't know how, their lawyers got them off scot-free. Clean and simple."

"But that was a trial," I said. "The Constitution guarantees trials. I can't help it if they were guilty but were found innocent. That still won't help you any. Doctors and lawyers have a special relationship with each other."

"That's not it!" said Marshbaum, frustrated that I couldn't grasp the basic complexities of American law. "It seems that the other six doctors pleaded guilty, and gave the U.S. attorney their full and complete cooperation."

"Makes sense to me. If six doctors pleaded guilty and gave full and complete cooperation, how is that going to get you to Jamaica?"

"Well, it seems that the government dropped the charges against the six docs. The government said that the six who pleaded guilty were less guilty than the four who pleaded innocent, so it would be a bad precedent to punish those doctors of less culpability—that was their words—'less culpability'—even though the government had already reduced the charges. So they dropped everything. No one's guilty any more."

"Now, let me see if I got this correct," I said, wondering just who the dumb ones really were. "Ten doctors were arrested for fraud."

"Right."

"And four pleaded innocent and got off scot-free."

"Right."

"And six pleaded guilty, but the government dropped the charges because the six were less culpable than the four who bought themselves good lawyers."

"Right again. Boy, you sure catch on fast for a novice at all this."

"So, how does that give you the right to break into the Sedergate Travel Agency and steal tickets to the Caribbean?"

"Can't you even grasp the basic law?" asked Marshbaum, patiently, but obviously upset with my ignorance and naivete. "Remember old Finstermeister? He stole $20,000 worth of tickets and got off because of some legal technicality? I'm only going to steal $2,000... maybe $3,000 worth. So, if I'm arrested, I'll plead guilty, give my full cooperation, cite the precedent in San Diego, then get to go back to the Caribbean. I wonder if I should take a taxi or—"

"Marshbaum," I said again interrupting, "you're a genius! But, don't you think you'll also need some money to stay in the Caribbean?"

"No problem. Got all that figured out too. Just please don't look at the company's books for a few days, O.K.?"

"The company's books? You embezzled from the company?"

"Sure. After all, the boss himself got off because he agreed to pay it back. No fines. No prison. No nothing! So it'll take me a little longer, but I'll eventually pay it back."

"Marshbaum, I wish you the best of luck," I said in total admiration.

"One final thing. I'd sure hate to take a cab to the travel agency and the docks—what with the prices being what they are—do you happen to know where I can get a nice used car?"

(Walt Brasch, an award-winning journalist, is president and editor-in-chief of Brasch & Mulliner, Publishers, a local book publishing company.)

Vera Dunning (Concluded)

"theoretician."

The royal family was sent to Siberia and later imprisoned in Ekaterinbourg where they were reportedly massacred in a mansion. Ipatieff, Mrs. Dunning contends that two members of the royal family are still alive.

It is ironic, she explained, that the first Romanoff, a 16-year-old boy, was secluded in a monastery. Ipatieff, when he was elected to become the first Romanoff ruler of Russia in 1613.

The revolution was personally very painful for Mrs. Dunning whose father and brother were shot by a "mob with no judgment." Often, she lived in fear as shots were fired at night "from here and there—and you knew what was happening."

Eventually, Mrs. Dunning fled to Constantinople and "the question became where to go, what to do." She finally accepted the advice of an American commissioner's wife who informed her, "America is young."

Traveling with a League of Nations passport, she set sail for the United States. Because of strict immigration quotas, ships raced to be first in line when they reached New York Harbor. Mrs. Dunning recalls that on a night in September 1923, "I stayed in my cabin all night and I cried with tears," but elsewhere "there was great hilarity and the next morning 'the captain was late.'"

"So, we were told we were beyond the quota and all foreigners would be sent back to their country of origin." However, it happened that Congress by special act permitted the Russian immigrants to remain in the United States.

One of the men who came to relate the good news was acquainted with Mrs. Dunning's family. "He took us on the subway to Manhattan. I was frightened to death."

Eventually, Mrs. Dunning traveled to the West Coast. "And when I decided it was time to start earning money, I had no qualifications." She had studied shorthand in Constantinople, only to discover that it was an English variety not used in the United States.

Advice given by a YWCA worker proved fortuitous. A Ms. Zivago suggested Mrs. Dunning should open a bank account. The teller was uncertain whether to accept drafts from Constantinople, but a bank officer from Turkey assisted her and then offered her work.

"They suffered with me for 11 months. My dear, I couldn't type, could not do anything. And I was always poor in numerals. My father said for me two and two never made four, it made a lighted taper."

Eventually, Mrs. Dunning obtained a teaching position at Polytechnic Night School in Los Angeles. She taught French and Russian history and literature. Later, the enterprising woman decided to build houses.

She married William Alfred Dunning, "a man who was nature itself," in 1932. After their son, George, was born in 1939 they decided "we will become farmers."

The couple purchased a citrus grove in Azusa and later came to San Dimas. Often planting and irrigating groves by hand, Mrs.

Dunning found great satisfaction in the out-of-doors. "I love nature," she says.

After the death of her husband in 1950, she often felt "so alone." But one day, as she sat at her desk, thinking of her young son and gazing at tax bills, she decided it would be necessary to survive "that very hard pull."

Now, at age 81, Mrs. Dunning says she learned one of life's very important lessons on that day when she was faced with opening a bank account.

"I may have lived among nobility, danced with officers," but when it came to opening a bank account, "I was just like any stupid, peasant girl."

Perform a death-defying act.

Legal aid for the poor

By State Assemblyman
Bill McVittie

California's legal codes, the product of more than a century of lawmaking, fill 100 volumes. When combined with local regulations and federal statutes, they occupy enough paper to stock a small library.

At some time in their lives, most Californians will need expert guidance to determine how these complex, interrelated laws affect their particular problems. But lack of money for attorney fees and little knowledge about how to shop for legal advice leaves many people to shift for themselves.

Federal funding to provide free legal services to the poor amounts to more than $13 million each year, and yet it may be scratching only the surface of the problem. The State Bar estimates federal and state money and private donations supply help to only 15 percent of all low income people who need it. That startline estimate was discussed in September by delegates to the annual Bar Association convention who finally voted down a proposal requiring all lawyers to donate at least 40 hours of their time each year to free legal services for the poor and representation of public interests. A similar idea has failed to win majority support among lawmakers in past legislative sessions.

Many attorneys who donate free time to aiding less fortunate people believe this is a personal obligation, and not a duty which should be mandated by either the State Bar or Legislature.

A proposal to make $6.5 million in state funds available to non-profit centers which furnish legal representation for poor people, senior citizens and the handicapped in civil matters failed to win enough votes for passage in the state Senate last June. Supporters of the legislation, Senate Bill 997 by Senator Nicholas Petris (D-11), point out that while the state spends millions of dollars providing legal help for accused criminals who cannot afford counsel, it contributes nothing to need ypeople embroiled in civil disputes.

A second legislative measure, allowing lawyers to advertise their fees and services, was rendered moot by a Supreme Court decision last summer. The high court struck down an Arizona prohibition against such advertising, declaring it a violation of constitutional free speech guarantees.

Backers of advertising by attorneys say public notices should help keep prices down through increased competition and allow consumers the opportunity to shop for legal counsel.

Wider use of paralegals is one method of increasing the availability of services which the state and local governments may find attractive. Trained legal assistants hired through the new Paralegal Training and Technical Assistance Program have already helped thousands of senior citizens collect Social Security and health benefits, and untangle legal snarls.

Other future possibilities — wider use of arbitration, decriminalization of victimless crimes, and promotion of media "action lines" — emphasize substitutes for the judicial process.

The issue currently centers on delivery rather than supply. While California graduates are lawyers — about 5,000 every year — than any other state, only two-thirds of this year's new attorneys will find law-related jobs. Both distribution and cost problems must be solved before full access to legal services becomes a reality for all Californians.

(McVittie, a Democrat, represents the 65th state Assembly District, which includes Upland, Montclair and part of Cucamonga.)

Law to help handicapped

Another significant breakthrough in helping severely disabled Californians become productive and independent persons was accomplished recently when Governor Jerry Brown signed AB 922 into law.

"The new law," said state Health and Welfare Secretary Mario Obledo, "removes restrictions which until now have blocked the efforts of very severely disabled people to seek employment and become independent."

"It may very well become a national model for other states to follow," he added.

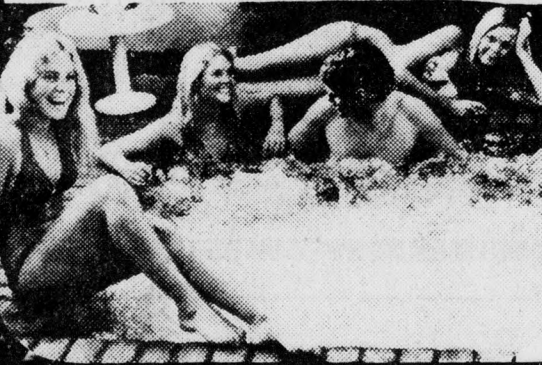

In the past, Obledo explained, supplemental security income (SSI) benefits that a disabled person had been receiving were terminated when that person earned $200 a month or more. This resulted in an immediate cut-off of attendant care they needed in the home, as well as terminating the Medi-Cal benefits.

"The new law helps disabled people to break out of the vicious cycle of dependence on governmental assistance by continuing state assistance during the early phases of their employment," Obledo said.

The law, which becomes effective Jan. 1, 1978, provides an initial $257,500 of general fund money for support services, such as attendant care which some disabled people need in their home, and Medi-Cal benefits. The funds will be available to employed persons no longer receiving SSI benefits if they require at least 20 hours of care in their homes per week and if their income is insufficient to pay for the cost of such services. As their personal income increases, the state would pay a smaller portion of their costs.

'Fat' fish can keep calories low when cooked right

If you think fish is only served fried you will want to try some of these delicious ways to prepare fish.

Because the fat in fish is polyunsaturated it is an especially good main dish for those who are watching cholesterol levels. And even so-called "fat fish" is lean in comparison to most red meat, therefore it is lower in calories too.

Remember these two important hints:

Be sure that the fish you buy is very fresh. The flavor and odor changes rapidly in just a day or two.

Don't overcook. Fish becomes dry, tough and tasteless when overcooked.

Fish is done when it separates from the bone or can be flaked with a fork or when the flesh changes from a translucent to an opaque look.

Marinated Fish

Two-thirds cup polyunsaturated oil
One-third cup vinegar
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
One-fourth tsp. pepper
1 bay leaf
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
One and one-half lbs. fish steaks, cut one inch thick (18 ounces cooked)

Combine oil, vinegar, salt, Worcestershire sauce, pepper, bay leaf and parsley in shallow dish. Add fish; cover, refrigerate at least three hours, turning frequently. Remove fish from marinade and place in a shallow baking dish. Pour a little of the marinade over the fish. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 to 35 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork but is still moist. Makes four to six servings.

Baked Stuffed Fish

1 (3 to 5 lbs.) whole fish, dressed
One-third cup polyunsaturated oil
One-half cup finely chopped onion
3 (about 5 slices bread) cups stale bread cubes
1 cup chopped celery
One-fourth cup chopped parsley
1 tbsps. lemon juice
2 tbsps. water
One-half tsp. salt
One-fourth tsp. salt
Polyunsaturated oil

Heat one-third cup oil in eight-inch skillet over medium heat. Add onion and cook, stirring constantly, until transparent. Add bread cubes and stir until coated with the oil. Remove from heat. Add celery, parsley, lemon juice, water, salt and pepper; mix well. Place fish on greased baking sheet. Stuff cavity with dressing. Close opening loosely with wooden picks. Brush fish with oil. Bake in 500-degree (extremely hot) oven five minutes. Reduce heat and continue baking in 400-degree (hot) oven about 40 to 65 minutes, allowing 12 minutes per pound, or until easily flaked with fork. Makes four to six servings.

Fish Fillets with Ginger

5 tbsps. polyunsaturated oil
6 (4 ozs. each) fish fillets (any kind of white fish)
1 clove garlic, minced
One-half cup thinly sliced fresh ginger
2 spring onions, thinly sliced
One and one-half tbsps. sugar
1 tbsps. wine vinegar
Two and one-half tbsps. soy sauce
1 tbsps. cornstarch
6 tbsps. water

In a skillet, heat oil. Add the fish and cook until fish flakes, about three minutes on each side. Remove to a warm plate. Add vinegar and soy sauce to sugar.

To the remaining fat in the pan, add garlic, ginger and the sugar mixture. Combine cornstarch with water and add to the ginger mixture. Beat until smooth and thickened. Pour over fish and sprinkle with sliced spring onions. Makes six servings.

Tuna or Salmon Souffle

1 cup skim milk

1 cup soft bread crumbs
Salt to taste
2 (8 oz.) cans of salmon or seven ounce cans of white tuna
3 egg whites
Heat skim milk in a double boiler and add bread crumbs. Drain the oil from the fish and rinse briefly in cold water. Drain. Bone and flake fish. Combine with thickened milk and crumbs. Beat egg whites and salt. Fold fish mixture into beaten egg whites. Pour into lightly greased casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for one-half hour. Makes four servings.

Cook chicken in clay pot

Modern clay-pot cooking is a rediscovery of an ancient method of preparing food, dating back thousands of years.

Our primitive ancestors, who lived on the meat of animals they had killed in the hunt, cooked it in simple earthenware containers placed in the glowing embers of their fires.

Today's clay bakers are simply refined and elegant versions of the ancient vessels.

A beginner's guide to cooking in clay pots is available free. The illustrated booklet contains a general introduction to the technique, typical recipes for meat, poultry, fish, vegetables and fruit that can be prepared easily with a clay baker, hints on timing and serving the food and on cleaning and caring for the pot. Single copies will be sent to anyone requesting "Cook in Clay" and sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope (at least 9 1/4 x 4 1/4 inches) to Reco, 138 Haven Ave., Post Office Box 681, Port Washington, N.Y. 11050.

Movable feast for fans

Now that school is in full swing, many fans are filling their weekends with trips to college or pro football stadiums. And, the tailgaters are out in force.

Steak Sandwiches with Mushroom Sauce

1 clove garlic, minced
1 medium onion, chopped
3 tablespoons olive oil
1/2 cup dry red wine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 1/2 pounds top sirloin steak, 1/2-inch thick
3/4 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
6 large hard rolls, cut in half or 12 slices rye bread

AT HOME:

To prepare marinade, saute garlic and onion in olive oil until crisp-tender. Add wine, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Pour marinade over steak in shallow dish. Cover and marinate in refrigerator for 3 hours, turning occasionally.

Drain meat, reserving marinade. Chill meat until serving time. Sauté mushrooms in butter. Add reserved marinade and simmer, uncovered 3 to 4 minutes. Combine cornstarch with water and stir into mushroom sauce. Stir constantly until thickened, about 1 minute. Transfer sauce to container with lid and chill until serving time.

AT PICNIC:

At serving time, cut steaks into 6 equal portions. Grill about 5 inches from medium hot coals for about 5 minutes per side for rare doneness. Turn with tongs.

While steaks are grilling, transfer mushroom sauce to small skillet or saucepan and place on grill until heated through. Stir frequently.

Picnic Waldorf Salad

1 cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 red apples, cored and cut into bite-sized chunks
1 1/2 cups thinly sliced celery
1 cup red grapes (1/2 pound), halved and seeded
1 can (20 ounces) pineapple chunks, drained
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
Crisp romaine leaves

To prepare dressing for salad, blend sour cream, sugar, lemon peel and salt in jar with lid.

Toss lemon juice with apple chunks in 3 quart container (with lid) until apple chunks are coated. Add celery, grapes, pineapple and walnuts. Cover. Chill all ingredients until ready to assemble.

Health Tips

Valley fever a local disease

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

doctor may be unfamiliar with it. The effects of valley fever vary widely. More than half the persons who inhale the spores do not suffer any evidence of illness but do acquire a lifelong immunity to the disease. Others may have symptoms similar to those of a common cold; some have a lingering illness which resembles pneumonia or tuberculosis and may require a brief hospitalization and a prolonged convalescence.

A small percentage of those stricken with valley fever are seriously ill, with the infection spreading to bones, joints, internal organs or the lining of the brain.

Medical researchers and physicians specializing in chest disorders are primarily concerned with the treatment of the more severe cases. For reasons that are not fully understood, these severe cases occur more frequently among members of racial minority groups than among Caucasians. More hopeful news seems to be emerging from the research laboratories. A new and less toxic antibiotic, still in the experimental stage, may facilitate the treatment of victims of valley fever. Also in the experimental stage is the use of human immune factors to assist in the treatment of this disease. A vaccine has been developed but not fully tested in human subjects that, it is hoped, will protect those who work in the high-risk areas from contracting valley fever.

Though many Californians live in the very heart of its breeding ground, relatively few of them know about valley fever — or what is known medically as coccidioidomycosis.

Valley fever is caused by a fungus which is a common inhabitant of soil in the Southwest's deserts and dry grasslands. The specific areas in which the fungus is found include California's San Joaquin Valley, central and southern Arizona and New Mexico, and the western third of Texas.

The illness is most commonly contracted when a person inhales the airborne spores of the fungus — which readily happens in the case of farm laborers, construction workers, prospectors, and archeologists excavating in early American Indian sites.

Valley fever cannot be transmitted from one person to another nor from an animal to a human being.

Since California is the only state which requires that valley fever be reported to public health authorities, its total prevalence can only be estimated. It is believed that between 35,000 and 100,000 cases occur each year in the U.S. Since this is a regional disease, most physicians in the Southwest detect it rather readily, but if it is contracted by a tourist in whom it will not show up until about 10-16 days after exposure to the fungus, the hometown
